Empowering Charities to Achieve their Goals

Rebecca is a leading Charity Strategist dedicated to making it easier and simpler for UK not-for-profit leaders, trustees, and volunteers to run their charities and achieve their goals. With her expertise in streamlining, simplifying, and strengthening charity operations and strategy, Rebecca empowers organisations to navigate the complexities of the charitable sector with confidence and success.

Armed with a 1st Class Honours Degree in Community Leadership, Rebecca's professional journey has been defined by her unwavering commitment to making a positive impact. Her journey began at 13 when she first started volunteering, igniting a passion for community work that would shape her future. Since then, Rebecca has steadily climbed the ranks.

Over the years, Rebecca has held senior management positions within various charities, where she successfully managed budgets exceeding £350K and oversaw teams of up to 20 staff members and over 200 dedicated volunteers. Her outstanding contributions have earned her a reputation as a trusted advisor and a champion for the charitable sector.

In addition to her professional accomplishments, Rebecca has taken on the role of Chairperson for the esteemed Trawden Forest Community Centre, Library, and Shop since 2022. Under her guidance, the village charity has flourished, providing vital services and support to the local community.

Rebecca's expertise lies in providing strategic and operational advice to charities, ensuring their long-term success and sustainability. With her guidance, organisations can overcome challenges, optimise their resources, and drive positive change in their communities. Her deep understanding of the intricacies of the charitable sector allows her to provide tailored solutions that address the unique needs and goals of each organisation she works with.

Outside of her professional pursuits, Rebecca is an avid reader, always in search of new knowledge and insights to enhance her expertise. She also continues to volunteer her time to various causes close to her heart.

Currently, Rebecca is focusing on driving meaningful change in the charity sector by empowering organisations to operate more efficiently and effectively. Through her strategic guidance and operational expertise, she aims to create a landscape where charities can thrive, maximize their impact, and contribute to a better and more compassionate society.
